“IMPLEMENTING THE CORPORATE GOVERNANCE CODE TO SAFEGUARD
YOUR ORGANIZATION FROM THE CONSEQUENCES OF POOR
CORPORATE GOVERNANCE”

INTRODUCTION

The corporate sector assumes a key role in propelling economic development, registering long term growth and performance by attracting investment, protecting investors and other stakeholders and enhancing companies' value.

It is, therefore, imperative that the economic entities have the freedom to perform in a market that is conducive to economic growth. It is also of equal importance that their performance or conduct should be carried out in a manner that is compatible with other economic goals.

Corporate governance refers to the manner in which a corporate entity conducts their business under the regulatory framework of the economy and general principles of prudence and ethics. As such it encapsulates diverse activities related to the management of a company affecting its performance and ability to promote and retain the trust of stakeholders and investors, which in turn, stimulates, promotes and benefits the wider economy.

“CORPORATE GOVERNANCE”

“Corporate Governance” can be broadly defined as rules, regulations and best practices that govern the management of a company, ensuring that boards and management secure the rights of shareholders, improve competitiveness, and enable access to capital in global markets. It is the mechanism through which the Board of Directors oversees the system adopted by the managers for running the company and the principles that govern the board in their accountability to shareholders and the company.

Good corporate governance is shared responsibility. It is an essential element for sustainable economic growth in a market economy. Corporations create jobs, generate tax revenues and provide markets with goods and services. It is not only companies but also countries that reap the benefits of global capital markets, and good corporate governance is essential to an attractive investment climate.

A company committed to good corporate governance has well-defined protected shareholder rights, a solid control environment, high levels of transparency and disclosure and an empowered board.,

Good corporate governance is also good risk management. It provides a system of checks and balances and aligns the interests of board members, executive managers and employees as well as majority and minority shareholders and other stakeholders.

A Corporate Governance Code aims to make the corporate governance system transparent and understandable for both national and international investors in a well liberalized and transparent economic system. As an instrument in lifting ethical standards in its relations between market participants, it aims to ensure accountability and fairness for all stakeholders and organizational efficiency and is therefore considered central to boosting investor confidence.

CORPORATE GOVERNANCE CODE OF THE KINGDOM OF BAHRAIN

The National Committee for the Corporate Governance Code has been working nearly three years to align the draft code to the requirements of the Kingdom of Bahrain .

This code will be applicable to all companies which are incorporated under the Bahraini Commercial Law (the “Company Law”) and supplements the Company Law; it does not replace the Company Law.

The Purpose of the Code is to establish in Bahrain the highest standards of corporate governance practices, and to provide protection for investors and other company stakeholders through compliance with those practices. It aims to make Bahrain’s corporate governance system transparent and understandable for both national and international investors in well liberalized economy.

As an instrument in lifting ethical standards in its relations between market participants, implementation of a Corporate Governance Code aims to enhance the Corporate Governance system of Bahraini companies by promoting transparency and fairness for all stakeholders in addition to organizational efficiency. It is therefore central to boosting investor confidence and therefore, to the health and stability of the economy and in reinforcing and bolstering the historic reputation of the Kingdom of Bahrain as a strongly regulated and global investment destination.

OBJECTIVE OF THE CONFERENCE

Due to the growing global importance of good corporate governance standardized by the Corporate Governance Code of each country, it is of paramount importance for Bahraini companies to fully comprehend the dimensions of the Corporate Governance Code. Poor corporate governance can undermine the potential of a company leading to diverse range of adverse implications that can affect its financial standing and have a negative impact on the economy of the Kingdom.

This Conference aims to promote the awareness of companies about the importance of good corporate governance – and guide them in their preparation for its implementation.
